

Problem Statement:

Every night the dining halls and restaurants close, despite many students still having hours of work and studying left in their day.

Details:

College is one of, if not the most important 4 years of a student's life. You would think students would have the necessary nutrients around the clock to fuel their bodies and brains. Unfortunately, this is not the case since many students are left hungry at night due to dining halls/restaurants closing. On many nights my roommates and I have had to order unhealthy fast food to keep us going. With freezers and microwaves already in our dorms there is certainly a way this problem can be alleviated.
